THE SOUTH IN THE CABINET.

The Chicago Tribune is a powerful ally to any cause and the republicans of the south have cause to rejoice at its accession to the ranks of those influential northern republicans who believe that it is only out of justice to the south that it should have a representative in the new cabinet. It says:

"Mr. Freeman proceeds to argue that the president can not know what the want or wishes of the southern people are, or be fully in sympathy with them; unless he has a representative of that section among his official advisers. To exclude the south from the cabinet because it gave no electoral votes to the republican candidate would, he says, tend to perpetuate the sectional divisions which now exist. Whether it be true or not that the growth of republicanism in Tennessee has been partly due to the appointment of two residents of that state as postmasters general is not quite clear; but there certainly are reasons, even from the point of view of partisan expediency, for giving the south a member of the cabinet."

During campaigns the southern republicans are continually admonished by their northern friends, "to close up their ranks and present a solid front to the enemy. No recognition is taken of the hopeless fight that is of necessity waged. No credit is given for an undaunted array in the face of an all-powerful enemy. It takes convictions strong as death to fight when the result of the contest is assured and against us. All the time the southern republicans are strengthening their party by silent additions and the slow accretions of bourbon haters, and beyond the usual election advice of which we have spoken, no words of encouragement are given. We are expected to fight our hopeless battles alone and unaided, but when the election is over we are informed that the republicans of the north have no further use for us, and for four years we are expected to concern ourselves no longer with the affairs of the party to which we bear allegiance and whose principles we love. We are good enough to work but we are not good enough to sit down with the elect. Fortunately it is that our faith is grounded on the rock of truth and right and that through good and evil repute we are republicans of a kind that is never appreciated nor equalled in the more fortunate north.

We assert, and without fear of contradiction, that the republicans of the south have shown a steadfastness of devotion, though surrounded by overwhelmingly numerous adversaries, that is without a superior in all the history of parties from the beginning of the world to the present day. Some of these days our reward will come, but it will be when our power will compel it, and not before, if the Cincinnati Commercial speaks with the authority it claims it does.

THE MAYORALTY.

The CHRONICLE is glad to note the disposition to keep politics out of the approaching municipal race. For some time past it has in its paragraphic column declared against any politics in city elections, and though in not as serious a tone as they might be, these paragraphs have been seriously intended.

We have had politics enough in the last few months to do us for a long time. The business interests of our merchants have been benefited by the fact that election is over and settled, and we much prefer seeing trade in commodities to trade in politics. It is more profitable to all of us that this be the case.

But while striving to bring about such a state of affairs, the CHRONICLE must admonish and advise the citizens of Knoxville that this election be let go by default. The credit and prosperity of the city can be very materially assisted by the selection of a good mayor and a good board of aldermen. We are now approaching the climax of that wave that may "lead on to fortune," and a good city legislature and executive are prime desiderata. No unsuitable or inefficient man should receive the suffrages of the people.

We may have reason to change our minds before the day of the election, but at present we are inclined to believe that the Hon. J. S. Van Gilder would be as suitable a selection as could be made, and we understand that he is not averse to making the race. He has made an able and efficient mayor in the past, and would, without a doubt, do the same in the future. We throw this out as a suggestion, and say that without a change in the complexion of affairs, he would receive the hearty support of the best men of our city. The CHRONICLE is cognizant of his abilities, as are all our citizens, and among those now announced, he would receive its aid.

BAYARD'S VIEWS.

Senator Bayard will be the leader of the alleged democratic party in the senate after the 4th of March next. The alleged democratic party has reason to congratulate itself on this point, for he is undoubtedly the best man it has, and the one whose leadership will carry most weight. He is fair, reasonable, able, an honest man, with an honest purpose, and one who occasionally horrifies his party and upsets their schemes without much formality by going off from them in a tangential direction. His views must carry conviction with them; consequently, and we rejoice to see the tenor of them as out-lined in a recent interview.

He begins his talk by using some mild but forcible language in denouncing the methods of the late canvass, but Bill Barnum is heavily touched. He then demonstrates a gentle rebuke to Mahone and Davis as little men with crochety notions. He declares against the movement to unseat Kellogg and declares it res ad judicium. This will settle that little business. He says Garfield has carried New York and there will be no trouble worth counting. He thinks the senate will be reorganized and is fearful of the result, evidently counting Mahone as a republican. He closed by speaking in the kindest terms of the president elect and prophesying that he would make a good officer, with a clear, pure administration.

A NEWSPAPER man, who saw Mrs. Garfield in the cars on her way to Cleveland, describes her as about the average height, spare in flesh, with dark hair combed plainly, with just one wave at the temples. Her eyes are dark and brilliant, and she has a very kind, motherly look. She was dressed in black silk, with heavy-plaited skirt, and wore a chip bonnet, trimmed with wine-colored ribbon.

HOLMAN'S
PAD
Cures Simply
Without by Absorption.
Medicine.

The Only True Malarial Antidote.

Dr. HOLMAN'S PAD is no guess-work remedy; no feeble imitative experiment; no patched-up concoction of some inventor's ideas; it is the Original and Only Genuine Curative Pad, the only remedy that has an honestly-acquired right to use the title-word "Pad" in connection with a treatment for chronic diseases of the stomach, liver and spleen.

By a recently perfected improvement, effected by the addition of vegetable ingredients of newly discovered remedial value and absorbent adaptability, Dr. HOLMAN has greatly increased the scope of the Pad's usefulness, and appreciably augmented its active curative power.

This great improvement gives HOLMAN'S PAD with its adjuncts a complete and unflinching control over the most persistent and unyielding forms of Chronic Disease of the stomach and liver, as well as Malarial Blood Poison.

HOLMAN'S PADS have cured—and are daily curing—diseases of so many kinds, that the list is well-nigh interminable. It includes Malarial Poison of every type, from Acting Bile and Low Stomach, such as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Chronic Diarrhea, Flatulency, Heartburn, etc.; Liver Disorders, like Biliousness, Bilious Colic, Biliary Fevers, St. K-Headache, Pains in the Side, Bilious Fevers, Tropical Liver, etc., etc. Well does this mighty remedy justify the eminent Professor Loomis' high eulogium: "IT IS NEARLY A UNIVERSAL PANACEA FOR ANYTHING IN MEDICINE."

The success of HOLMAN'S PADS has inspired imitators who offer pads similar in form and odor to the genuine HOLMAN PAD. Beware of these bogus and imitation Pads, gotten up only to sell on the reputation of the famous HOLMAN PAD.

Each genuine HOLMAN PAD bears the Private Revenue Stamp of the HOLMAN PAD COMPANY, with the above Trade-Mark printed in green.
